

SOMEWHERE.
Somewhere or other there must surely be The heart that never yet—ah me!
Made answer to my wail!
Somewhere or other, maybe near or far—Past land and sea, and out of human sight; Beyond the wearying moon, beyond the star That tracks her, night by night—Somewhere or other, maybe far or near,
With just a wall, a hedge between;
With just the last leaves of the dying year Fallen on a turf grown green.

Sketch on Judas.
John Reakin, the "Crown of Wild Olive," characterized in his trenchant style those who live to make money, as imitators of Judas:

We do great injustice to Iscariot, in thinking him wicked above all common wickedness. He was only a common money-lover, and like all money-lovers, didn't understand Christ; couldn't make out the worth of Him or meaning of Him.
He didn't want Him to be killed. He was horribly shocked when he found that Christ would be killed.
He threw his money away instantly, and hanged himself. How many of our present money-seekers, think you, would have the grace to hang themselves, whoever was killed? But Judas was a common, selfish, muddle-headed, pilfering fellow; his hand always in the bag of the poor, and not caring for them. He didn't understand Christ; yet believed in Him, much more than most of us do; had seen Him do miracles, thought He was quite strong enough to shift for himself, and he, Judas, might as well make his own little by persuading out of the affair. Christ would come out of it well enough, and he have the thirty pieces.
Now, that is the money-seeker's idea, all over the world. He doesn't hate Christ, but can't understand Him—doesn't care for Him—sees no good in that benevolent business; makes his own little job out of it, at all events, comes what will. And thus, a lot of every mass of men, you have a certain number of big men—your "top-first" men, whose main object is to make money. And they do make it—make it in all sorts of unfair ways, chiefly by the weight and force of money itself or what is called the power of capital; that is to say, the power which money, once obtained, has over the labor of the poor, so that the capitalist can take all its produce to himself, except the laborer's food. That is the modern Judas way of "carrying the bag" and "bearing what is put therein."

The Difference.
The Radical papers of Missouri talk about the insecurity of life and property in the South, but it is mere talk.
There is no Southern State where property and life is so notoriously unsafe as in this craft-ridden State of Missouri.

There is no Southern State where a murder like that of the Wright family would not be speedily avenged by the law.

There is no Southern State where such a bound of hell as Dabcock could live for forty-eight hours.

There is no Southern State where such a murder as that of the Rev. Mr. Headlee would pass unnoticed or unpunished.

There is no Governor of a Southern State so steeped in self and party as to permit the crimes daily committed under Fletcher's eye and by his parliament.

There is no Southern State where reputable men may not address meetings, as Col. Richardson and ex-Gov. Price cannot in Missouri.

There is no Southern State where a band of thieves and outlaws can terrorize and plunder whole sections of country as in the case in Missouri, Clarke and other counties in the State of Missouri.

There is no Southern State where a man may not transact his business quietly and escape insult and violence, as he can in Clarke and other counties in Missouri.

More than this, the Democrat and other Radical papers know it, and glory in it. They do rejoice because it injures to the benefit of a miserable organization with which they are connected politically.—St. Louis Times.

The Needle gun.
The following is a clear and concise description of this destructive weapon.

"The needle gun is a breech-loading rifle of a very simple construction. It is loaded from the fact that the powder is ignited, not by a hammer striking a cap, but by a needle perforating the cartridge and exploding the fuelling material by friction. At the breech, of the gun there is a handle in the form of a knob. By moving this handle to one side, which is done by a very simple and rapid motion, the breech is opened, the cartridge is then slipped into the aperture, and the handle is returned to its original position, closing the breech.
By the same motion the needle is pressed back so as to be detained by a spring. When the trigger is pulled the needle darts forward into the breech, through a small hole at the lower end of the barrel, and perforates and ignites the fuelling material in the cartridge, thus exploding the powder. The manual operations by which all this is accomplished are exceedingly simple, and can be performed with great rapidity, so that the needle gun can be easily loaded and discharged three or four times while a common muzzle-loading rifle is fired once. The needle gun is very light and handy, can be relied upon at long range, and carries the bullet with great accuracy."

The Canadian Government has asked the Home Government to send more troops to Canada owing to the apprehended trouble with the United States, growing out of expected Fenian invasion and modification of neutrality laws of the United States. The Home Government has decided to send two regiments of Infantry and one of Cavalry to Canada, and preparations are making for their departure.

The largest structure in Iowa, and one of the most magnificent ecclesiastical buildings in the Northwest, is to be erected next spring at the Catholic colony of Mollary, in Table Mountain township, about twelve miles south-west from Dubuque. It will be built of brick upon a stone foundation, with cover more than an acre and a half of ground; will be two stories high, with a steeple reaching from the church portion one hundred and seventy feet into the air, and will cost between one hundred and two hundred thousand dollars.

Negro vendors of watermelons drive through the streets of Richmond singing:
"White seed and green vine, Jess pulled, and mighty fine."

The Sedalia Press says there was frost in Pettis county on the morning of the 24th of August.
